1,700 Ex-Soldiers Of Poland Arrive In Canada To Settle

HALIFAX (CP) — A happy queue of beribboned Polish war veterans marched off a big transport here early today onto the Canadian soil which has adopted them.

Capt. Jerzy Marcinkowski, Polish Commandant and British 8th Army veteran, spoke for the 1,700 special immigrants when he said: "We are in Canada because we want to live like free men. There is no freedom in Europe today."

This was the first draft of 4,000 Polish soldiers who fought with the Canadians in the Mediterranean theatre and recently were selected for farm work—preferring this rather than return to their own country.

There were no bands and no cheering.

The Poles, big, husky, predominantly blond men, were wearing well-worn British-type uniforms bearing the shoulder flashes of the British 8th Army and wearing their own distinctive lapel insignia. Most of them wore Polish battle honors that included ribbons for Tobruk and Monte Cassino.

The troops smiled and seemed to enjoy the prospect of going ashore. They tried hard to understand what reporters asked them and they hurried around to find the few men who had a knowledge of English. Most of the immigrants are Christians, but there is one Jewish soldier,
a veteran of underground fighting in Poland and most of the campaigns from El Alamein to the Gothic Line.

Capt. Marcinkowski, a slim, tall man, 33 years old, a peacetime farmer, is going to Kingston, Ont., region. He has ambitions of some day owning his own farm, marrying "one of your nice Canadian girls and living in peace and security."

The day was overcast as the Polish soldiers walked ashore to pass customs, immigration, medical and police inspection before receiving new Canadian dollars and boarding trains taking them to all parts of the Dominion.

3 Drug Suspects Held In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police narcotic squad officers Monday night disclosed the week-end arrest here of two men and a woman on charges of possession of narcotics and said the three may be involved in a drug ring operating in three countries.

Police here disclosed the arrests shortly after a dispatch from Phoenix, Ariz., had told of the arrest there by U.S. federal agents and R.C.M.P. of Roy D.
Linville, 45, on a narcotics charge following investigations in Canada, the United States and Mexico.

Those arrested here were Louis Rossi, 41, Herman E.
Elliot, 44, Vancouver broker, and Connie Elliot, 33, Police said Rossi had previously been deported from the United States.
He has been released on bail bonds of $10,000.

Constable Joe Downey of the R.C.M.P. was in Phoenix working with U.S. agents in the investigation, which has been carried on since December, 1945.

R.C.M.P. officers said the three arrested here, after facing the charges of drug possession, may also face conspiracy charges or be extradited to the United States in connection with the case against Linville.

English Cricketers All Out For 314

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuter)—The English cricket touring team carried their Saturday's total of 171 runs for three wickets to 314 all out against an Australian team here Monday. The Australians replied with 90 runs for one wicket at close of play.

Two days of play remain as an extra day was added because of rain on the opening day.
England's captain, Walter Hammond, took nearly three hours in collecting his 51 and the English team seven hours over their total. "When the Australians went in with 100 minutes play left, they did not quite reach the rate of one run a minute but were faster than the tourists."

The 24,000 spectators saw Don Bradman, Australian captain, go in first wicket down. He played confidently and was undefeated with 28 runs at close of play.

DEFEATS ARSENAL
PARIS (Reuter)—The Racing Club de Paris Monday beat the Arsenal, England's premier pre-war soccer team, 2 to 1, to register their first victory in the soccer series between the two teams. Since 1930, 11 matches have been played and Arsenal has won eight and Racing Club one, with two drawn.

Massey Says Canada Has Obligation To Aid Peace

Canada's former High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, addresses the Canadian Club. On his right is Col. Eric Pepler, president of the Canadian Club.

Canadians have a continuing obligation to help produce real peace, to bring about the kind of world Canadians want to live in, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, formerly Canadian High Commissioner in the United Kingdom, told the Canadian Club Monday noon.

"We are relatively young in years but we have many of the marks of maturity — a steady, moderate sort of folk, not naturally given to excess or extremes, and with a considerable measure of experience," he said.
"We are old enough to have our own point of view, a Canadian point of view, on all the questions that matter. Let us express it with confidence, and when we haven't a point of view of our own, I suggest it is time we acquired one."

"I am far from suggesting that we haven't much to learn from the world outside," he continued.
"Heaven preserve us from such a foolish pose!"

"But I think you will agree with me that we should select the ideas we import just as we should select our immigrants. We should be sure that these ideas fit in with our own traditions, and I am convinced that we can profitably draw from the deep well of our own Canadian traditions more than we do."

Mr. Massey said the world generally recognized Canada's stature had grown during the last seven years. He believed Canadians would realize more fully what has happened as they see it in some perspective of years.

He said Canada today held a position of importance in the world that was far greater than the small population would suggest.

WIDER RESPONSIBILITIES

"We have acquired new prestige and we find about us much good will," he said. "But we know that prestige involves obligations; that increased stature brings with it widened responsibilities."

While the British people's feeling for Canada has deepened during the war, Canadians have learned to think even more than they ever did of Britain, he said.

"The story of the war years in the Old Country made us prouder than ever of being linked with her in the great comradeship of the British Commonwealth," he said.

Mr. Massey also addressed the Canadian Branch of the Institute of International Affairs in Victoria and the Women's Canadian Club.

He will leave tonight for Vancouver, where he will spend two or three days before proceeding to Calgary and Edmonton, where he will also speak.

After returning to his home near Toronto, he will go to Quebec and the Maritimes on a speaking tour during which he will also familiarize himself with Canada after being abroad for 11 years.

George Robinson, Son Shoot 2 Moose, Deer

George Robinson, well-known Victoria sporting goods dealer, and his son, Doug, returned home today from a three-day hunting trip in the Cariboo country with two moose and a mule deer.

One of the moose, shot by George, was reckoned to weigh close to 1,000 pounds. "Our guide declared it to be the largest specimen he had ever seen killed in the district," Robinson said.
The other moose, weighing in the neighborhood of 600 pounds and the 200-pound deer were shot by Doug.

The Robinsons brought back the carcasses of the small moose and the deer.

Saanich Building Includes Theatre, $50,000 Home

G. H. Wheaton has obtained the contracts for two large buildings in Saanich, the new theatre at Gorge Road and Albina Street, and a $50,000 home for Capt. Massy Gooden in Royal Oak, it was learned today.

The site for the new theatre building, which will include nine stores, has already been cleared of brush and undergrowth and partially leveled off. The manufacture of cement bricks has been carried on there for the past several months, getting ready for the theatre which is owned by R. F. Castle.

It is estimated that the building will cost $38,000. E. Clarkson is the architect for the concrete block, one-story structure.

C. B. K. Van Norman is the architect for the Massy Gooden home, which will be of frame and stone. An immediate start is to be made on the two-story building which measures 200 by 26 feet. Ground floor will consist of nine rooms, and the second floor will have five bedrooms, laundry, sewing room and four bathrooms.

Thermopane glass is to be used extensively and radiant heating will be installed. Exterior finish is of cedar siding and red brick veneer.

Italy May Dicker

NEW YORK (AP) — The Italian government notified the Foreign Ministers' Council today that it is "considering with keen interest the possibility of direct negotiations with Yugoslavia" to settle the problem of Trieste's future. A statement was made public by the Italian consulate here as the Council was about to go into session in an effort to reach an agreement on a peace pact for Italy.

Ask $15,000 Over City Budget For School Expenses

The City of Victoria has been asked to pay $15,191 more than the levy made last January for the operation of the schools by the Greater Victoria School Board, Ald. Edward Williams, chairman of the finance committee, said today.

He said that he would recommend payment of the extra money at today's council meeting because "at all costs our schools must be kept in operation."

City Comptroller D. A. MacDonald explained to the finance committee that at the beginning of the year Victoria and Saanich had made their school budgets on the basis of grants to be given as recommended in the Cameron Report, while Oak Bay and Esquimalt had continued to budget under the old system. This has resulted in considerable confusion for the first year of operation under the new system.

In Victoria the school levy was $448,762 for the entire year, and during the first three months while the Victoria School Board was operating, $134,954 was spent, leaving $313,811 to go into the coffers of the Union School Board.

However, the School Board has now requested $329,002, which is $15,191 more than the city budgeted. The School Board has based its request on the amount of gross expenditure included in the various levies of the four municipalities, which is apportioned on the basis of the respective assessments. These are taken on 100 per cent of the assessed value of the land and 75 per cent of the assessed value of improvements.

The city's share of school expenditures for the whole area comes to 60.06 per cent, Oak Bay 18.51 per cent, Saanich 15.48 per cent, Esquimalt 4.55 per cent, and unorganized territory 1.40 per cent.

No difficulties are anticipated next year in arriving at the levy on the municipalities because all will be budgeting on the same basis.

Russia Holds Third Of Europe, Churchill Says As House Opens

LONDON (CP) — The British government today renewed its plea for an "effective world government" and drew from opposition leader Winston Churchill the observation that "the world situation has not improved."

Replying to a government motion for the acceptance of the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the new session of Parliament, Mr. Churchill said "more than one-third of Europe is held under Soviet control."

"The Soviet military frontier is on the Elbe and it is impossible to forecast what the future and the fate of France will be," the Conservative leader said.

"The British and American forces in Europe have melted away. The Russian armies have been maintained in Europe in vast strength and largely on a war footing. The Conservative Party cannot accept any responsibility for Potsdam (decisions of the Big Three powers) as matters were taken out of our hands at the vital phase of these talks."

Mr. Churchill said, however, that Foreign Secretary Bevin "has done his best."

The Speech from the Throne called for continuous conscription and for nationalization of electric utilities and inland transportation.

It marked the opening of the second session since the Labor Party took over the reins of government. The glittering ceremony took place amid the most elaborate precautions since the 1939 and 1940 bombings attributed to the Irish Republican Army.

ALL POINTS WATCHED

A special watch was being kept for members of the Jewish extremist organizations who might have slipped into Britain.

Every policeman and detective Scotland Yard could spare—more than 5,000 all told—mingled with the crowds along the route as the King drove from Buckingham Palace to Westminster for the opening ceremony, using an Irish state coach built for Queen Victoria.

These are the legislative forecasts for the session in the Throne Speech read by the King to the members of both Houses:

1. "A measure providing for the continuation of the national service from the date when the present transitional scheme comes to an end."
 2. "A measure . . . to bring inland transport services under national ownership and control."
 3. "Proposals to deal with compensation and betterment in relation to town and country plans and otherwise to improve the machinery of planning."
 4. "A bill . . . to bring into national ownership the electricity supply industry as a further part of a concerted plan for the co-ordination of the fuel and power industries."
 5. "Legislation enabling the government to put into effect recommendations of the government-appointed working parties for better organization of the important industries."
 6. "A bill to establish a new ministry of defence."
 7. "A measure giving effect to the 1944 Chicago convention on international civil aviation."
- After listing several other minor items, the Throne Speech warned that "other measures will be laid before you if time

At Least 30 Die In Peruvian Quake

LIMA, Peru (AP) — At least 30 persons were killed in an earthquake which destroyed the town of Sihuas, 250 miles north of Lima, shortly after noon Monday, an Interior Ministry announcement said today.

The town of Moyobamba, in Libertad department, also was reported destroyed by the quake, which apparently hit hardest in Libertad and Ancash departments north of Lima.

Details were lacking because of severed communications.

No Pact Surrender

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons today in the course of the debate on the Throne Speech that there is no question of any unilateral surrender of trade preferential agreements.

NO CAUSE FOR PESSIMISM

YESTERDAY WAS THE FIRST REMEMBRANCE Day to be observed since the General Assembly of the United Nations held its initial meeting in London more than a year ago. Fifty-one states have sent representatives to the current deliberations of the successor to the old League. Skeptics who are indulging in retrospective exercises see little prospect of practical progress emerging either from Flushing Meadows or Lake Success. But this doleful point of view should disturb nobody. The world and its peoples have learned much since the Wilsonian ideal took shape at Versailles; the fact that the United States would have nothing to do with the organization to which her President had given a great part of himself, and finally all he was and had, doomed it to failure. It was like trying the play Hamlet without the melancholy Dane. None will seriously argue that any substantial parallel exists today.

Certainly there is no primrose path to a just and enduring peace. Many painful and discouraging problems that divide the member states of the United Nations will not be solved without plain talk and a willingness to surrender some of those ancient prerogatives which pale into insignificance before the portents of an atomic age. But it is patent to all with even moderate understanding that the conferees in New York are striving valiantly with the task of converting the organization born at San Francisco in the spring of 1945 from what has been called a "beautiful dream" into a workable reality. Again the skeptics will point to the trouble existing in various parts of the world and ask how the United Nations Organization hopes to deal with it. Of course, puzzling and aggravating conditions prevail in China, Indonesia, French Indo-China, India, Iran, Palestine, Greece, Italy, Trieste, Poland and elsewhere. These conditions do not present a pretty picture. Even the original members of the "Big Three" are continually calling one another names; but the bitterness of words are much better and more hopeful for the future so long as they are used instead of bullets.

While yesterday's exercises, therefore, gave the peoples of many lands the opportunity to assess the progress the world has made toward the ideals for which millions had died in two global wars, this annual observance also presented them with a challenge—an inquiry as to how much they, as individuals, had done and were doing to promote and influence those fundamental precepts upon which peace must rest if it is to be just and lasting. For, reduced to its final analysis, the "common man" is the arbiter of his own destiny; he elects governments; governments make policies that determine the conduct of the nation and fashion its relations with the rest of the universal family. But when the skeptics deplore the dissipation of the "one world" idea as they contemplate the international scene at the moment, they conveniently forget that the world has never been one in the political, economic, or social sense. What is gratifying, however, is the fact that the philosophy of that great liberal, the late Wendell L. Willkie, has stirred the imaginations of millions. That his concept of universal unity is even being talked about is all to the good. And probably before another Remembrance Day comes round the doubting Thomases will be less vociferous than they are today.

CANADA WILL WATCH

UNTIL OUR NEIGHBORS HAVE HAD a few days' experience without wage and price controls it would be foolish to speculate on the effect of the announcement which President Truman made on Saturday. The chief executive flatly told the people of the United States that further continuance of a policy which bears no resemblance to the original O.P.A. formula could serve no useful purpose. Only rents, sugar, and rice now come within the scope of the regulatory machinery. "The real basis of our difficulty," said the President, "is the unworkable price control law which the Congress gave us to administer." He pointed out that industry had sought the removal of price controls, while labor had pressed for the removal of control on wages; but both had insisted that increased production and fewer work stoppages would result if a free economy were restored.

It would now appear to be up to business and labor in the United States to show what they can do without the restraining influence of controls—how they can meet a condition which finds 140,000,000 people with more money than they have ever had before and nothing like sufficient commodities on which to spend it. Never has the unscrupulous had a better chance to make a "killing" than he will have in the next week or so. But it is fairly safe to say that the public will be watching for him; and if enough consumers make up their minds on this point, his "clean-up" should be short lived. Some manufacturers naturally will mark up their products; they will say they have been mulcted by labor, and this is their opportunity to get even. Some labor unions will doubtless take advantage of the removal of wage and salary ceilings and put in new demands.

If employer and employee, however, can come to an agreement on these matters without running wild, and if the consuming public can be persuaded that increased production is just round the mythical corner, well and good. But it is not necessary to have a profound knowledge of economics or an actuarial mind to understand that the position to which an unworkable condition has driven Mr. Truman is fraught with alarming potentialities. Prices soared after the First Great War. The whole business structure collapsed. Years of depression followed a comparatively short period of spurious prosperity. Yet we have some in Canada—especially one or two anti-King newspapers—who would do away with all controls in this country at once. This is a case of the Bourbon mind in 1946.

COALITION FOR FRANCE?

SUNDAY'S GENERAL ELECTION IN France gave no party anything like a working majority. With the returns still incomplete, the Communists lead with 173 seats, the M.R.P. (President Bidault's Popular Republican Party), take second place with 161, the Socialists 95, Radical elements 61, and the recognized Rightist parties 85.

What kind of a coalition government will be formed with the foregoing political division remains to be seen. As the party with the majority of seats in the next chamber, the Communists naturally are demanding leadership; but it will be necessary for them to "trade" with one or more of the other parties to command a majority voice in the next Chamber of Deputies. Viewed from any standpoint, however, the result is not a very good guarantee of stability in administration unless all parties have completely thrown overboard the concept of political life as existed, for example, a decade ago. Multiplicity of parties smooths the way for would-be dictators.

It was small wonder, of course, that the elections of 1936—held less than two months after Hitler sent his troops into the demilitarized Rhineland—did little to prepare the nation for coming events. Seats in the Chamber of Deputies after that contest, incidentally, were distributed between the Socialists, Dissident Socialists, Radical Socialists, Communists and Dissident Communists, while parties of the Right—38 per cent of the whole—comprised the Republican Federation, Left Republicans, Independent Radicals, Popular Democrats, and Conservatives. Out of that mixture Blum's Socialists led the field with 146 out of 618 Deputies.

Since the grouping has now been reduced to five principal elements, and notwithstanding the narrow margin separating the Communists and the M.R.P., it should not be too difficult to reach a working agreement. But the question which the stalemate poses is: What will General de Gaulle do?

IT SHOULD BE DEFEATED

BEFORE THEY GO TO THE POLLS TO mark their ballots at the civic elections next month, it is hoped the voters of this community will consider the implications of the store-closing plebiscite with meticulous care. The question to be answered is as follows: "Are you in favor of the present proposal for closing retail shops under the Shops Early Closing Act for one whole day in each week on the presentation of a petition from 75 per cent or more of any class of shop?"

Apart from the "gobbledygook" phraseology of the reference, the purpose of the inquiry is not difficult to understand. If the voters should approve the principle, however, it would simply mean that the way would be opened for a retrograde step as far as the community's economy is concerned. News would go out to the traveling public—specifically to the tourist—that the capital city of British Columbia is so satisfied with its present and future business outlook that it can afford to cut its retail week from five and a half days to five. What should always be borne in mind, however, is that when a holidaymaker, or a visitor looking for a new place of residence, decides to make a trip to Victoria, he does not feel the necessity of finding out in advance whether or not the stores are open or closed on this or that day of the week. He takes it for granted that any district which is bidding for his custom—and reams of publicity with this objective in view—is distributed at considerable cost every year—really is anxious to get it. It is not necessary to try to describe the shock he gets when he arrives here and finds the town figuratively closed up tight.

Progressive Victorians, in other words, will be acting in their own best interests if they defeat the plebiscite. If the whole question centres on the subject of holidays, or has a general application to the trend for a shorter working week for employees, surely the problem is simple of solution. What is to prevent the adoption of the "staggering" arrangement which seemed to work so efficiently during the war years? Surely our citizens should guard against a policy which takes for granted that current prosperity is a pegged condition—a condition, for example, which emboldens the electorate to tell all and sundry that there is no special reason why their retail establishments should remain open on all the working days of the week.

Walter Lippmann Clear As Crystal

THE RISE OF THE REPUBLICANS IT TAKES A LONG time under the American system of government to change over from one party to the other. It can hardly be done in less than three years. During this period the ins break up and lose their ability to govern before the outs, who are going to replace them, can organize themselves, choose their leaders, and sort out their views. The United States is now in such a period. The decay of the Democratic administration, which began at least 18 months ago, is far advanced. But the Republican party is far from being ready to take over.

The change-over begins, of course, in Congress when the administration can no longer command a working majority. President Truman since he took office, like Hoover after 1929-1930, like Wilson after 1918-1919, like Taft after 1909-1910, has had no support and has faced a growing opposition in congress. But this opposition in Congress is not necessarily, or even probably, as it would be in Britain, for example, the core of the next administration. For the new national party control comes out of the states.

THAT IS WHERE POLITICAL power is generated, and that is where most Presidents, and in modern times the most successful Presidents, are tried out and trained. It is from the Governors, rather than from men who have worked their way up through Congress, that a good President is most likely to come. For legislative experience does not usually fit a man to be a chief executive. The effective presidents in this century, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Coolidge and Franklin D. Roosevelt, had been governors of states. Taft, Harding, Hoover and Truman had not.

If, as is most probable, there is to be a Republican administration elected in 1948, the candidate will be selected by conflict and compromise among the Republican parties in the states. Therefore, the national Republican party of 1948 is not yet visible: it will be formed in the contest, which has still to be fought out, among the local organizations and factions dominated now by Governor Dewey, by Senators like Taft, Bricker, and Vandenberg, by Governor Warren, Senator Morse, Mr. Stassen, and Col. McCormick.

YET THE ELECTION last Tuesday was decisive enough to make Governor Dewey far and away the leading contender. His problem is to keep his lead by composing the differences with his Republican rivals in such a way as to fit himself for national leadership.

No man can do this who does not rise above factionalism, who does not realize that this country cannot be governed by one wing of a party. Mr. Hoover on election night announced that the election "defines that the Republican party is the party of the right." Mr. Hoover could not have offered his party worse advice. If the Republican party is to govern the country it must of necessity represent a broad compromise of views: it must be a party of the centre or it will disrupt the country and divide itself.

It must be what all American parties have to be if they are to administer successfully a country which is so big, is heterogeneous, and so varied in its interests—a working combination of many factions, groups, and regional interests.

NOTHING COULD be more un-American politically than the notion that either of the great parties is the vehicle of a particular ideology. It is the very essence of American party system—and the most valuable thing about it—that in order to govern a party must compose and adjust within itself the sharp differences which divide men. It is not too much to say that the stability and survival of American institutions depends upon the ability of the party system to moderate and neutralize the fierce conflicts of factions.

When a party tends to become ideologically simple, it is a mere faction and can never command the support of the nation. Thus the decay of the Democratic party set in when it split into its southern and its northern urban factions, and was no longer a working combination. Then it was unable to govern. If the Republicans were to follow Mr. Hoover's advice, they would begin where the Democrats have ended.

THE DISCOVERY of the point at which the factions that make up a party can coalesce, and the views which divide it can be reconciled or transcended: that is the inwardness of party leadership. It is now the business of the responsible Republicans to search for and find this point at which national leadership can begin.

It will not be easy. As they go about it they might say to themselves what Washington said when he had been elected: "My movements to the chair of government will be accompanied by feelings not unlike those of a culprit who is going to his place of execution."

Union Shop Versus Closed Shop

By F. B. Walker From Brighton

THE OFFICIAL attitude of the British Trades Union Congress to the closed shop issue, now the centre of nation-wide debate in Britain, was stated in a three-page supplementary report, issued on the first day of the five-day conference here at Brighton. It distinguishes clearly between "the union shop" and the "closed shop." It supports the former; it terms the latter "alien to British trades union practice and theory."

As the T.U.C. defines it, the closed shop means "an establishment in which only members of a particular union can be employed to the exclusion of members of other unions." The union shop, on the other hand, implies a shop which is 100 per cent organized, though not necessarily in one union.

THE T.U.C. resolution thus does not support the position taken by the Transport and General Workers' union, which recently compelled the London Passenger Transport Board, a public body, to dismiss all workers who would not join this union because they preferred to maintain a separate union of their own. If this final negation of the citizen's rights in industry is not upheld by the central labor organization of Britain, it has been enforced in the London transport system and under a peculiarly vicious principle—serious interference with the life and livelihood of a citizen has been undertaken not by parliament, which alone should exercise such fundamental power if it is to be exercised at all, but by a local organ of the state under the compulsion of a trade union. In a broad and very dangerous sense the right of legislation on the position of the citizen in his work has been successfully removed from the legislature to a special group of people.

This was the fundamental principle of the London transport issue on which the T.U.C. has now ruled adversely. But, though this principle is not endorsed by the central labor organization, local unions apparently will be free to pursue it and establish it in local industries if they can. Therefore, the issue thus posed remains unsettled and will remain a source of continued struggle in industry and debate in parliament.

A Gift From Other Minds

By JOHN ABERNETHY MOST of us are ordinary men. We believe that experience is the best teacher and that all ideals and ideas that fall in the test of living are so much trash and merely clutter men's minds. Therefore, Methuselah should have been the wisest man who ever lived—but all that is said of him is that he lived 969 years and died. Thousands of men and women have given and there are many who now are giving—to the world more than long life. It is on this fact that our entire education system is built; because we must learn from the experience of others. These truths must necessarily be put into written form, and they comprise the textbooks of each new generation.

More than a losing pace if we neglect to learn from well-ordered lives? How can we appreciate existing conditions if we bury ourselves in our own little business or professional holes? The wisdom of the past and the challenge of the present must be found in reading what has been strike to compel these workers to join it. That is what happened in the London Passenger Transport Board.

IN A COUNTRY with such general trades union organization as Britain, and at this time with a Labor government, the refusal of some workers to join a particular union or any union does not threaten the position of the unions. It is true, however, that the so-called "break-away" unions—groups of workers who withdraw from a large union and form their own—are embarrassing to some of the great unions. The great unions regard the break-away union as a positive danger to the whole union movement. On the other hand, the union movement has often made progress throughout the last century by the activities of groups of men who refused to accept the terms offered either by industry or by some large unions. This is pointed out by the Spectator as follows:

"Not all the unions which disagree with the policy of the T.U.C. are bands of malcontents, and the T.U.C. will do much harm if it assumes that they are. The distinction between honest dissent and mere cantankerousness is fundamental to the very existence of trade unionism. The men who founded it and maintained it through its fighting days were no doubt called all these things which the T.U.C. now calls these dissenting unions (so conveniently covered by the blanket term 'break-away unions') which make themselves a nuisance to it. The Tolpuddle Martyrs were essentially dissidents. But neither trade unionism nor the cause of freedom in general can do without such men."

THE PROBLEM posed here—first the right of the citizen to join or not join a union and, second, the right of great unions to extinguish smaller ones—will not be solved soon or without difficulty. Mr. Charles Dukes, president of the T.U.C., says it will be solved by patience and industrial statesmanship. In the end it will be solved by the people of Britain as a whole and it is clear in press and parliament that they are deeply disturbed by the present serious threats of their liberties.

SO HE WENT TO UTOPIA
From the New Republic, New York.
At the United Nations Assembly there is a story about an American senator who was introduced to Julian Huxley, Acting Director of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. The dialogue ran about as follows:
Introducer: Senator Blank of the United States, meet Dr. Julian Huxley, of UNESCO.
Senator: Who did you say?
Introducer: Dr. Huxley, of UNESCO.
Senator: Pleased to meet you, Dr. Huxley. I've always had the greatest admiration for UNESCO, that small but gallant country which fought so bravely for its freedom.

SMALL BOYS AND LAMPS
From the Montreal Star.
To a small boy with a slingshot or a stone in his hand a street lamp presents a glowing target. Everybody likes to shoot at a mark, and what more inviting mark could there be than a lighted lamp? When the small boy shoots he does not think beyond his personal prowess. If he hits it he is a hero to his pals and his own self-esteem goes up a notch.

Today in Montreal small boys with stones and slingshots, while satisfying their necessary urges, are causing a great deal of damage and opening the way for accidents. In many parts of the city street lamps are out because someone has smashed them, and at intersections where the lamps are not lighted the chance of accident grows. It grows progressively because Hydro-Quebec, which services these lamps, cannot always replace them.

COAST GUARD FOR CANADA
By Evelyn S. Tufts in the Halifax Herald.

When the proposal was made last session in the House of Commons that Canada should have a Coast Guard in which would be incorporated the many services now undertaken by several government departments at Ottawa, it was also suggested that this force, if established, might very well be patterned after the one which has operated for so many years in the United States.

The American Coast Guard service has been in operation in some form ever since the Revolution although its present name dates back only to the First Great War—1915 to be exact. At that time, two of the main maritime services, the Revenue Cutter Service and the Light-house Service, were merged under one establishment. Since then many other functions such as the Life Saving service, have been added, along with other duties formerly carried out by the Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation.

Peoples Around The World Pause To Honor Dead Of 2 Great Wars

By CANADIAN PRESS

In Canada, the United States, Britain and the British Commonwealth and in many parts of Europe, millions passed Monday in the job of reconstructing the world to commemorate the men who gave their lives in two world wars.

On the 28th anniversary of the conclusion of the First Great War, Canadians observed a period of silence at 11 a.m. in the various time zones across the Dominion. The Last Post was sounded at cenotaphs and war memorials in cities, towns and villages from coast to coast as relatives and friends recalled the dead of that earlier war and the dead of the second and greater conflict which ended 15 months ago.

Messages were sent out to the people of Canada from the leaders of the armed services. Prime Minister King and Viscount Alexander, Governor-General, placed wreaths on the Cenotaph at Ottawa.

In the United States President Truman placed a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery near Washington and reminded his people in an address of the burden of responsibility placed on them by the war dead.

KING PLACES WREATH

Britain observed Remembrance Day Sunday, instituting an annual observance of the end of two wars on the Sunday preceding Nov. 11. The King and Princess Elizabeth placed wreaths on the Cenotaph in Whitehall and ceremonies were observed at Westminster Abbey and at war memorials throughout the land. Some Britons also observed Monday—the traditional date for services in honor of the war dead—and German prisoners of war in Britain marked the day by placing wreaths on the graves of the Allied dead at a cemetery near Cambridge.

The people of Holland wore poppies and celebrated Armistice Day for the first time with ceremonies throughout the country. Wreaths were placed on graves in Canadian cemeteries at Groesbeek near Nijmegen, at Almelo and at Bergen-op-Zoom. The village priest at Groesbeek celebrated mass on an altar erected at the foot of a cross in the Canadian cemetery amid the graves of 3,000 of the Dominion's fallen.

In France and Belgium school children placed flowers on the graves of the dead and veterans of both wars joined in ceremonies at the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, where President Georges Bidault placed a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Parades and religious services were held in Belgium.

Canada was represented in Sunday's service in Whitehall in London by High Commissioner Norman Robertson. Maj.-Gen. Georges P. Vanier, Canadian Ambassador to France, represented the Dominion at the Paris observance. Canadian officials, too, were present at the various ceremonies in Holland and Belgium.

WORK HALTS IN EAST

Traffic ground to a halt in Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton streets as "The Last Post" sounded at 10.58 a.m. and work halted in stores and factories in the large cities. Universities canceled lectures and students joined in campus ceremonies as carillons tolled.

Parades of war veterans featured observances in most eastern Canada communities. At the Brockville, Ont., march-past the salute was taken by Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, chief of the Canadian general staff.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Rev. Robert Moynan told more than 1,000 citizens who stood in near-freezing chill: "If we forget again those who sacrificed their lives in world conflict, a more terrible judgment will come upon us."

CHILLY ON PLAINS

On the prairies the weather was less inclement. Thousands thronged Edmonton streets to watch one of the biggest parades in the city's history.

Veterans paraded to the Cenotaph in Winnipeg following special services in most of the city's churches and a mass service in the civic auditorium.

Vancouver downtown area was jammed for the city's observance and many of the smaller ones in the interior of British Columbia marked the day with ceremonies at local Canadian Legion halls.

General Motors Prices Up $100

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors announced over the holiday an increase of $100 in the list price of all its passenger car models produced and sold in the United States.

The corporation said prices of all Chevrolet trucks also would be increased $100. The same increase, General Motors said, would be applied to all corresponding models produced by the G.M. truck and coach division.

A Ford Motor Company official said no price increase was contemplated immediately. There has been no word from the Chrysler Corporation as to its plans.

"I'd like 11,506,651* others to hear this"

"No post mortems!" warned Ida, glancing at Ruth. "The game's over. Besides your husband looks as though he has something on his mind."

"I sure have," said Bill. "Only I'd like the other 11,506,651 Canadians to hear this too. To-day I got hold of some figures that made me proud of the business I'm in. We Canadians now own more than 10 billion dollars worth of life insurance. And payments? During 1945 alone, the companies paid out about 66½ million dollars to widows, children and other beneficiaries. And another 95 million dollars was paid to living policyholders through matured endowments, dividends, disability claims, annuities and cash surrender values. That's what life insurance is doing for us Canadians."

"These life insurance benefits helped to pay off mortgages on homes, start youngsters off to college, settle older people into comfortable retirement. Countless families have thanked their stars for life insurance in time of need. Many, many others who are now building future security through their policies will be glad of it. But I want every living Canadian to realize the importance of Life Insurance."

Every life insurance dollar, while waiting to be paid out to its claimant, is working and growing in the service of the public, creating more jobs and more goods for more Canadians. Of that dollar about 57 cents is now invested in Government bonds, 5 cents is laboring for municipalities, 20 cents is building industries and public utilities from coast to coast, 8 cents is in farm and urban mortgages, another 5 cents is on loan to policyholders, 1½ cents is represented by real estate and 3½ cents is in cash and miscellaneous assets.

Life insurance not only grows in the scope of its protection, year after year, but is continually being employed for socially desirable purposes.

A message from the Life Insurance Companies in Canada and their agents.

What to do about Colds

In these days when so much is to be done and so few to do it, the loss of time caused by colds becomes more serious than ever. Isn't it about time we considered colds seriously and did something about them?

Here are some timely suggestions which, we believe, will help you to escape having colds or to check them and save valuable time.

1. The cold germ gets you when your general health is under par or when you are tired out by overwork or worry. You can largely avoid this condition and often escape colds by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to help build up your health to high water mark. Rich red blood is the greatest of germicides and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the food minerals and Vitamin B-1 which make the blood rich and nourishing.

2. If you do feel a cold coming on, act quickly and you may check it entirely or at least shorten its course. Try this. Take Dr. Chase's Parado, a good drink of hot lemonade or ginger tea, and rest in bed. Repeat this treatment if necessary. Parado does not disappoint.

3. Should you be so unfortunate as to have a cold in its later stages, with coughing and irritation of the throat and bronchial tubes, use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. This treatment has been a great favourite in many thousands of homes for over half a century. It is pleasant to take and remarkably effective in helping to relieve coughs, colds, croup and bronchitis.

Instead of neglecting colds, plan ahead by having these medicines in your home. Some one is sure to need them. The wise course is to prevent colds by keeping the health at high water mark. Let Dr. Chase's Nerve Food help you to do this.

Dual-Control Car Teaches Drivers

Art Watson and B. McKinley, originators of the dual-control car driving school system, have opened a branch of their school in Victoria.

The partners were both pilots in the R.C.A.F. and met in a prisoner-of-war camp in Germany. McKinley, the inventor of the dual-control for cars, developed the idea from the system used in the air force for instructing and training pilots.

Back on civvy street and seeking re-establishment, the pair realized there were people who wanted to learn to drive an automobile, but did not have the opportunity to receive safe and simple instruction. They worked on their dual-control car driving system for instructing.

Many people without their own automobiles have seen the advantage of this driver instruction and have qualified for their driver's license.

New 1946 cars are used by this school, which is operating now from the Victoria Super Service Station.

Banks To Turn Sod For New Citadel

The sod for the new Salvation Army Citadel on the south side of Pandora Avenue in the 700 block will be turned Saturday afternoon by Lieutenant-Governor C. A. Banks, it was announced today.

The building will cost an estimated $96,000 and the Salvation Army is starting the second lap of its three-year campaign to raise the necessary funds Nov. 25. The first drive was held last year and collections are keeping pace with the objective, it was reported today.

Originally it was thought the building would cost $80,000 but increased building costs have raised the figure.

Also in attendance at the turning of the sod ceremonies will be Lt. Col. A. Keith, divisional commander from Vancouver, and local Salvation Army officers. Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the campaign committee and chairman of the Victoria Advisory Board will introduce the Lieutenant-Governor.

The Salvation Army Band will provide the music.

Social Credit Head Returns From East

Maj. A. H. Jukes, D.S.O., O.B.E., president of the Social Credit Association in British Columbia and vice-president of the national association, has returned from the east after attending several conventions and a meeting of the national council.

The national council has determined to contest the next federal election, but in the meantime will encourage the organization of the electorate in a union of voters to press for results in legislation now without waiting until an election to do so.

Tribute Paid To Heroes Of Two Wars At Parades And Church Services

Lieutenant-Governor Charles A. Banks, with Mrs. Banks and Brig-Gen. J. G. Austin, on saluting stand.

"They shall not grow old as we that are left grow old; age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn. At the going down of the sun, and in the morning we will remember them..."

It was in the spirit of this passage that Victoria honored the memory of its fallen heroes of two wars Sunday and Remembrance Day with church and public services.

Thousands of residents lined the downtown streets Monday to watch the parade of veterans and representatives of three branches of the service parade to the Cenotaph to pay tribute and lay wreaths in memory of the fallen.

Commencing at 11:02 a.m. following 2 minutes silence which was ushered in by the firing of a gun by the Royal Canadian Artillery, the thousands present joined in the singing of appropriate hymns: "O Valiant Hearts," "The Silent Tribute," followed by O Canada and finally God Save the King.

At the conclusion of the service veterans' organizations, naval and military detachments marched past Lieutenant-Governor Charles A. Banks, who took the salute.

His Honor had previously placed a wreath at the base of the War Memorial and was followed in turn by a representative of bereaved mothers, Premier John Hart, Ald. Ed. Williams, representing Mayor Percy George, réeves of adjoining municipalities, heads of ex-service-men's organizations, consular representatives, military establishments and women's auxiliaries.

The 1st Battalion of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, following the conclusion of the service at the War Memorial, moved on to Pioneer Square for a short service at the Regimental War Memorial the Vimy Cross. Families of ex-servicemen of the regiment and of casualties of both wars took part in the service.

Every Wife should answer these questions:

Without you, could your husband provide the RIGHT care for the children? Probably not without extra money to make some suitable arrangement...

Does it matter WHICH life insurance company you choose?

It does matter! Life insurance companies are much alike as to policies and rates, but actual long-term results vary widely. We invite you to compare The Mutual Life of Canada's record with that of any other company. Evidence of the satisfaction of our policyholders is furnished by the fact that whole families and succeeding generations have entrusted their life insurance programs exclusively to The Mutual Life of Canada; and each year approximately 35% of its new business comes from policyholders. Mikado Presented At York Theatre Wins Much Praise

The Well-loved characters, lilting tunes and nonsensical jingles with their underlying note of satire that make up all Gilbert and Sullivan operas, returned to Victoria Monday, when the Breckenridge Gilbert and Sullivan Light Opera Company of San Francisco commenced a three-day engagement at the York Theatre.

Opening performance, both afternoon and evening was The Mikado. Enthusiastic audiences listened happily to "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring," "Three Little Maids From School," and all the other well-known songs, applauded the competent work of principals and spoke highly of colorful stage settings and costumes.

Outstanding in popularity was Ko-Ko, the Lord High Executioner, played by 23-year-old Richard Besoyan. Sue Bell Browne gave a well balanced and convincing characterization of the elderly and ugly Katisha.

Virginia Blair was a dainty Yum-Yum, well supported by Jean Longstreet as Pitt-Sing and Sherry Mason as Peep-Bo. Pompous Pooh-Bah and Nanki-Poo, with his charming grace were given life and character by Marsden Argall and Henri Scanlon. Edward Iverson was the Mikado.

Tonight, H.M.S. Pinafore will be presented; Wednesday matinee, Patience, and Wednesday night The Pirates of Penzance.

Peden Sees Return Of Six-Day Bike Sport

OTTAWA (CP)—Big "Torchy" Peden was in town Friday with the answer to the question "what happened to six-day bicycle racing?"

The answer, said the former Olympic and professional cyclist from Victoria, lies in the answer to a lot of other things—namely, shortages. In this case, shortages of rubber and lumber supplies.

But Peden, here on a business trip, looked for resumption of the sport on a major scale, possibly next spring or summer.

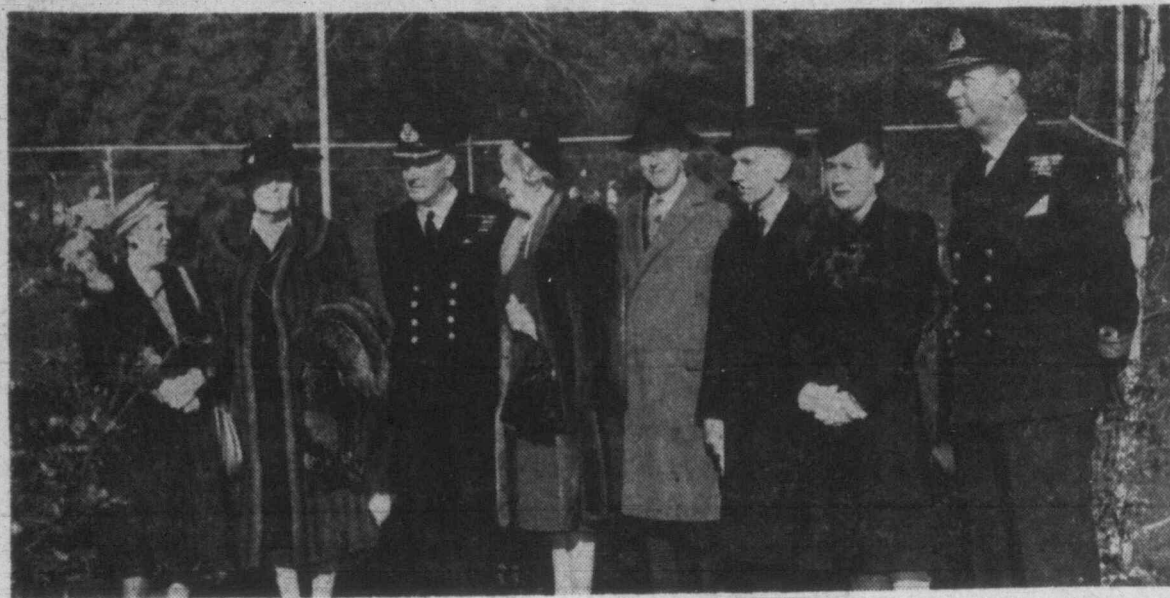

A veteran of the 1928 Olympic Games at Amsterdam and winner of 38 professional races, Peden now admits to 40 years.

Baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums formed the floral setting for the ceremony, performed by Rev. W. R. Ashford. Miss Hilda Kirby presided at the organ and Miss Donna Lucas, the bride's cousin from Milwaukee, Oregon, sang "O Perfect Love" while the register was being signed.

Orange Hall was the scene of the reception, where mothers of the young couple assisted in welcoming 130 guests.

The young couple left for a honeymoon trip to Salmon Arm, Washington and Oregon. For traveling the bride chose a grey crepe dress, pale blue topcoat, black plastic accessories and a corsage bouquet of carnations.

All-White Wedding
For Enid Middleton

St. Mark's Church was the scene of an all-white wedding Saturday evening when Miss Enid Florence Middleton, daughter of Mrs. F. M. Middleton, 445 Beta Street said "I do" to Dwight Green, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Green, 869 Humboldt Street. Standard baskets of white and mauve chrysanthemums flanked the altar and baskets of white mums decorated the chancel for the ceremony performed by Rev. N. S. Noel.

John Middleton gave his sister in marriage. The dark-haired bride wore a gown of heavy white satin fashioned on Princess lines, the full skirt slightly on train. A Mary Stuart headdress held her full-length veil of embroidered net and her only jewelry was a three-strand pearl necklace. A mauve orchid topping her white prayer book provided the only coloring in her ensemble.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. R. H. Sanders and Miss Edith Alcock, in gowns of white sheer with halo headresses and chrysanthemums.

Walter Scott, the groom's brother-in-law from Kamloops, was best man. Ushering were Arthur Sambrook and R. H. Sanders.

The young couple, assisted by their mothers, welcomed their guests at a reception held in St. Mark's Hall. Rev. Noel proposed the bride's toast.

San Francisco is the honeymoon destination. A three-piece suit of coral, with deep brown accessories, matching model hat with gold trim and orchid corsage bouquet was the bride's traveling costume. She wore a single strand of pearls, the groom's gift. Mr. and Mrs. Green will reside at 3135 Davin Road.

Regular meeting, Victoria Chapter, Canadian Nurses Association, tonight at 8, Jubilee Nurses' Home. Miss M. Crickmay, speaker. Subject, "Speech Defects and Correction."

Windsors Return To North America; May Visit Canada

NEW YORK (CP)—After 14 months in Europe, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor will return to North America today.

They arrived in New York Monday aboard the Queen Elizabeth.

The Duke said he did not know how long they would remain in New York and that he "may have to visit Canada" this autumn.

Previous reports from London said the Duke would visit the ranch at High River, Alta., which he acquired when he was Prince of Wales, and that later he and the Duchess would go to southern California for the winter.

The Duke told shipside reporters that they planned to remain in North America at least until next May, when they might return to Europe.

He said that during his recent visit to Britain, on which the Duchess accompanied him, he made no business connections and that there was no question of appointment by the British government to any official post.

EATING TOO MUCH?

Most People Do and Pay the Penalty!

Many who feel "under the weather" are often guilty of overeating, especially rich, fatty foods. This often leads to a system overloaded with toxic waste, a dull, tired feeling and eventual "middle-age spread."

A favorite British method of keeping fit and trim despite rich, heavy food is to take Bile Beans nightly. These small all-vegetable pills are so gentle they are called "The Medicine That Wakes Up Nature." Most people eat too heavily, exercise too little, so get BILE BEANS from your drug store and resolve to keep fit and youthfully active.

The DOCTOR Says:

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M.D.

Salmonella infection results from the eating of infected beef, pork, or fowl. Protein foods such as meat, fish, eggs, or fowl are quite safe if thoroughly cooked and eaten immediately, but germs can grow in these foods if they are allowed to stand at room temperature for some time after being cooked.

The incubation period of salmonella infection is 12 to 48 hours.

Severe diarrhea, fever, and marked weakness are common complaints. Vomiting may be almost continuous, as the patient is doubled up with cramps.

Fatalities are uncommon, and the patients usually are well in a few days, though they may feel weak for some time thereafter.

INFECTS ENTIRE GROUPS

Several persons are usually infected with salmonella germs at the same time, for the disease is commonly acquired by eating infected food and not by contact with the sick or carriers. Diagnosis is not difficult if it is learned that the patient is one of several who became ill after attending a banquet or picnic.

Salmonella poisoning from duck eggs has been reported, but chicken eggs do not carry the germs. The germs enter the eggs during the process of development in the fowl.

All eggs should be kept in a cool place before use and should be eaten immediately after cooking.

Most cases of salmonella infection originate in animals, and only a few outbreaks have been traced to human carriers. Chopped meats and sausages are common offenders, probably because they are made from scraps which may have been allowed to stand at room temperature.

In spite of the presence of enormous numbers of germs in meat infected with salmonella, the food usually tastes all right and looks all right. Take no chances with protein foods.

OBSERVE FOOD RULES

Salmonella infection can be prevented by the enforcement of regulations for the proper handling of protein food.

Serving large numbers of people often dangerously taxes the facilities of an establishment. This is especially true in the case of banquets, church dinners, picnics, and other such gatherings. As a result, the food may have to be prepared hours in advance and may readily be infected before it is served.

It is a good rule to reheat all protein foods before use. This is advisable even if the foods have been kept in the refrigerator, but especially so if they have been allowed to remain in the open at room temperature.

Sunday's left-over meat may safely be served on Tuesday if it is first reheated.

4 Die By Mishaps

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four persons died in holiday week-end accidents on B.C. Lower Mainland, three in auto crashes and a four-year-old child by drowning.

Alexander Ingram, 20, and Olive Underwood, both of Vancouver, were killed in a car crash at New Westminster. Anita Taylor, 22, Vancouver, was killed in a car accident on the Trans-Canada Highway near Chilliwack. Allan Westwood, four, North Vancouver, drowned in a North Vancouver creek.

DOMINION LABOUR DEPARTMENT
Humphrey Mitchell
MINISTER OF LABOUR

A. MacNamara
DEPUTY MINISTER

By ROBERT N. COOL

At Lima, Peru, one day last year, two airport maintenance employees suddenly took off in a big American airliner. Neither of the men was a certified pilot and their flight was unauthorized.

Five hours later, in the words of the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board report, "oil slick and float-sam were observed on the ocean by an air search crew, about 10 miles from the airport. The float-sam was recovered and identified as part of NC 19470, which presumably sank and crashed in the ocean."

The joyriding maintenance men were not seen again, and are listed as fatalities. Their excursion became one of more than 1,000 incidents—some trivial, others tragic—that CAB has investigated since 1938. In total, these reports indicate what significant to travelers is the fact that of 1,023 accidents to U.S. commercial planes from 1938 through 1945, only 53 caused loss of life. Through mid-October, 1946, 11 more fatal crashes have been listed.

Most mishaps never make the newspapers. They consisted of minor damage caused by the same sort of mishaps that lead to crumpled fenders for city drivers: a wing brushing against an airport building while a plane is being jockeyed into position, for instance. Time and again, slight damage has been caused to planes in flight by collisions with buzzards or other birds.

In one case a pilot was injured by a seagull cracking the windshield.

But in regard to fatal accidents, CAB findings refute any assumption that flying is becoming more dangerous.

During the fiscal year of 1937, 9,881,797 passenger miles were flown by commercial carriers for each passenger fatality. In the 1946 fiscal year, ending June 30, more than 56,000,000 passenger miles were flown for each passenger death. The number of fatalities per 100,000,000 passenger miles dropped from 10.1 to 1.8 in those years.

In minor accidents, such as blowouts on the airstrip or buzzard trouble aloft, full explanations can easily be found. More serious crashes, however, are often difficult to assess.

Typical of the condensed reports which the government issues at the end of every year is the following account of a crash at Trammel, Kentucky, which on July 28, 1943, wrecked a plane and killed 20 of the passengers and crew.

"The plane was cruising at reduced speed, due to prevailing thunderstorms and turbulence. Evidence indicates that it encountered a severe down-draft, and although full power was applied it was impossible for the pilot to maintain altitude and the plane crashed in a wooded area where it was completely destroyed by impact and fire."

Not unnaturally, the U.S. government's investigations show most serious crash-ups taking place in mountain regions.

The Appalachian range has taken its toll of traffic on crowded eastern airlines. Similarly, the Rockies have been the scene of disaster in the west.

Such states as Texas, where visibility and weather conditions are uniformly good and where the land is flat, see very few commercial airline mishaps. Exhaustive CAB inquiries help the airlines eliminate the factors that contribute to accidents on the civilian airways.

Short Wave Club

D. Vaughan Smith was named president of the Victoria Short Wave Club at the annual meeting held in the clubrooms, 2500 Foul Bay Road. Other officers are: H. R. Hough, vice-president; D. Scholes, secretary; A. Stewart, treasurer; S. M. Jones, G. M. Clark and I. Sherwin, directors.

Tel. D. McCuaig, R.C.N., was admitted as a member. The treasurer's report indicated a sound financial condition.

The president, in his annual report, said that since the resumption of activities following the end of the war 24 old and 57 new members were on the rolls, making a total of 81 members.

Fred Taylor, secretary of the British Columbia Amateur Radio Club, an association of amateur radio clubs in B.C., gave a talk on the aims and objects of his organization.

A letter from an ex-member, Ray Tate, now at Prince George, disclosed that an amateur radio club, the Cariboo Amateur Radio Club, was being started at Prince George. Another ex-member of the V.S.W.C., Percy Pike, is also with the Cariboo club.

Esquimalt—A general meeting marking the second birthday of Esquimalt P.T.A. will be held at Esquimalt High School tonight at 8. A surprise entertainment is planned under the convenship of M. C. Kelly, principal of the school.

Nanaimo Captures Football Match

Goalie Bobby Moss of Victoria leaps high into the air to gather in a high shot during yesterday's Coast League football game. Other local players seen in front of the goal are Tom Fraser, Rookie Wright and Joe Travis.

Failing to take advantage of the many scoring opportunities presented, Victoria United dropped a 3 to 1 decision to Nanaimo in a Pacific Coast Football League battle before 1,700, the largest crowd of the season, at Athletic Park Monday. Clubs were tied 1 to 1 at halftime.

Final score was all against the trend of the play. The United, playing some of the smartest football to date, dominated the attack throughout but lacked the finish to score goals. True, the Nanaimo club packed its goal and goalie Archie Johnstone turned in a brilliant exhibition, but Victoria should have scored sufficient goals in the first 15 minutes of play to win.

Displaying an effective short-passing style the United forwards worked the ball into the Nanaimo goal area, time after time, only to shoot wide or have their drives blocked by the visiting backs and halves. The United failed to get any breaks on a couple of occasions when what looked like sure goals were cleared.

Nanaimo adopted the long passing game, swinging the ball to the wings to open up the play and it was effective enough to get them three goals. United pressed from the kickoff and looked to have scored with centre-forward Druce's shot was headed for the open goal but full-back McKay rushed in to kick clear inches from the line. Penalty was called against Nanaimo for hands and Johnstone made a grand save of George Payne's bullet drive. Minutes later Nip Sage hit one of the upstarts with a header from Payne's cross.

DRUCE SCORES
Victoria finally scored when Druce picked the top corner with a header after Denny Shubbrook had crossed from the right wing. Nanaimo finally broke up the pressure and play was more even

Taylor Continues To Pace N.H.L. Scorers

MONTREAL (CP)—National Hockey League statistics released today showed Billy Taylor of Detroit Red Wings the leading point-maker for the third straight week. The smooth centre-ice man has accumulated 16 points — five goals, 11 assists.

Four points behind Taylor is Maurice Richard, Montreal Canadiens, with eight goals and four assists for 12 points. The Rocket leads the league in goals scored while Taylor is tops in the assist department with 11.

Boston's Frankie Brimsek leads the goaltenders with two shutouts to date and he has the best average among the goal guardians with an average of 2.3 goals per game for 10 contests thus far. Bill Durnan is next with an average of 2.33 goals a game in nine fixtures.

Detroit's Hal Jackson leads the bad boys with a total of 21 minutes in the penalty box.

WEEK-END GAMES

Games over the week-end saw Toronto consolidate its position at the head of the standings. Leafs registered a double win, beating Chicago Black Hawks 4 to 2 Sunday night, after edging Rangers by the same count Saturday. Boston shut out Rangers 4 to 0 Sunday while Canadiens lost to Detroit 6 to 3.

Quackenbush Out With Broken Wrist

DETROIT (AP)—Defenceman Bill Quackenbush will be lost to Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League until Feb. 1, due to a fractured left wrist suffered in Sunday's 6 to 3 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Dr. C. L. Tomst, team physician, said Quackenbush will be out "probably 10 weeks."

Victoria Hockey Club Drops 13 To 3 Game At New Westminster

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—New Westminster Cubs won their fourth straight game in the Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League when they downed Victoria Red Raiders 13 to 3, at Queens Park Arena last night before a crowd of 300.

By their win the Cubs moved out in front of the league standings, one game ahead of Vancouver White Spots.

The winners showed too much class for the Red Raiders, who were only playing their second game of the season, as they battled the Cubs goal for goal in the first period but the more experienced New Westminster team completely dominated the game from the second stanza on.

Bob Johnson opened the scoring for the winners less than two minutes after the game had started when he beat goalie Archie Shold with a sizzler from close in. Just after that counter Art Wright, Cubs defenceman, was sent off for tripping and within 23 seconds Al Davychuk had scored twice to put the Raiders in the lead for the only time during the contest.

George Reid tied the score up close to the end of the period. The second panel was all New Westminster's as they counted three times without a reply from Victoria.

Then in the final period the roof fell in on the Raiders and before it was over the Cubs had notched eight markers while holding the losers to a lone tally.

GETS SIX ASSISTS
Dennis Barkley had a big night for the winners as he ended up with one goal and six assists while Mickey Maguire had three goals, and Bob Johnson two goals and three assists.

St. Andrews Win To Bolster Lead In Coast Soccer

VANCOUVER (CP)—St. Andrews continued their winning ways in the Coast Soccer League when they downed St. Saviours, 3 to 1, Monday, before a crowd of 3,000, to stretch their lead to three points over North Shore in the league standings.

St. Andrews went on the offensive from the opening whistle, and St. Saviours had very little chance to organize any attack of their own, and after 15 minutes had elapsed, Bus Byford scored the first goal of the game for St. Andrews.

Then, 10 minutes from the half, Frank Ambler put the Scots in the lead, 2 to 0, when he scored on a pass from Jimmy Greig.

For the second half the Tigers switched their club around, bringing on Tommy McGibbon at left back and moving George Bain up to right wing, but the change never produced any results.

Jimmy Greig scored St. Andrews third goal on a pass from Red Enefer, when Jackie Jones planned a foul kick, awarded against Joe Jankovich, inside the goal mouth.

In the dying minutes of the contest, George Bain headed in Ray Burgess' pass for the Tigers' only goal of the affair.

Shoot Big Bear

Bob and Ted Carlow of 2530 George Road East arrived home from a hunting expedition this week-end with a big black bear as their prize.

The bear, weighing 275 pounds, was shot by the Carlow brothers at Wolf Lake.

J.B.A.A. Ruggers Smother Vancouver

Forward Joe Andrews of the J.B.A.A. carries the ball at his feet during yesterday's intercity rugby battle against Vancouver Rowing Club. Other local players in the picture are Ritchie Williams, Bill Van Druten and Red Jury.

J.B.A.A. rugby fifteen took a stranglehold on the Arthur H. Cox trophy Monday afternoon at Macdonald Park when they ran roughshod over the visiting Vancouver Rowing Club 20 to 0 in the first of a home and home total point series.

Play was fairly even in the opening half, with the Bays taking advantage of the breaks to score two tries, although outplayed by the visitors in the scrum. The second half, however, was all Victoria, as the speedy Bay backfielder broke away time and time again for long runs and added four more tries and a conversion to their total.

Albie Williams, hard working forward of Bert Buller's aggregation tallied both scores in the first canto as he followed up fast on a rush by the Victoria forwards, to fall on a loose ball over the Vancouver line. Minutes later he scored his second try as he finished up a Bay three-quarter run and pulled a Vancouver tackler over from the five-yard line, to tally near the flag.

Bill Van Druten, husky forward notched the third tally shortly after the breather when he dribbled the ball over the visitors line. From then on the locals three-quarter line took command of the fray, and tallied two more tries on some beautiful runs by Jimmy Ranson, Austin Cullin and Duff McCaghey. Cullin and McCaghey each going over.

BEAUTIFUL RUN
Leading 15 to 0 at this stage and with only a few minutes to play, Dick Chunggranes, who had been moved from the scrum to the three-line at half time, picked up a loose ball near the Vancouver 35-yard stripe and cut through the entire Rowing Club team to score the final try of the afternoon, on what was easily the outstanding individual effort of the day. Pophams conversion split the uprights.

Doug Bray, Joe Andrews and Van Druten, Victoria forwards were on the ball all afternoon and never gave the visitors a chance to get rolling. When they did manage to get away with a few good backfield runs, deadly tackling by Cullin, Popham and McCaghey threw them back. It was hard to pick an outstanding performer for the winners as every one of the team turned in a hard game that stamped the local fifteen as a power to be reckoned with in English rugby circles this season.

W.I.L. Ball Clubs Will Play 154 Games; Opening April 18

Western International Baseball League clubs will play a 154-game schedule next season, business manager Reg Patterson of the Victoria Athletics announced today on his return from a league meeting at Yakima over the week-end. The league schedule will start a week earlier and finish a week later in 1947 than it did the past season, and the teams will play split series throughout.

It has been decided to usher in the season April 18 and finish Sept. 14. Victoria club will open on the road returning to open its home season the second week.

Each club will make three swings around the circuit and will play the same number of games against every other team in the league. The unbalanced schedule of last season was unpopular all over the circuit. Victoria, for instance, only saw the Yakima and Salem clubs once last season.

RE-ELECT ABEL
Robert Abel, veteran president of the W.I.L., will hold that position again during the coming year. Abel was re-elected by club owners and directors who also named Sam Collins, Spokane, first vice-president, and Enoch Alexson, Tacoma, second vice-president.

William Mulligan, new business manager of the Portland Beavers, parent club of the Salem Senators, was named director to succeed William Klepper.

Other directors attending the session were Frederick Mercy Jr., Yakima; Sam Collins, Spokane; John Johnson, Victoria; Robert Brown, Vancouver, B.C.; William Shephard, Bremerton, and Joe Brownlow, Wenatchee.

Duffy Performs Second Hat-Trick In Hockey Triumph

Week-end games in the Pacific Coast Hockey League saw the Hollywood Wolves tighten their hold on the southern division lead by a 2 to 1 victory over the San Francisco Shamrocks. Larry Archambault scored the winning goal for the Wolves in a tight defensive contest.

Portland Eagles got a firmer grip on the second spot in the northern division by defeating New Westminster Royals 2 to 1 before the largest crowd ever to witness a Portland hockey game. With New Westminster short a man in the second period Jack McDonald scored what proved to be the winning goal.

In San Diego, Maurice Duffy came up with his second hat-trick in a week notching three goals as San Diego Skyhawks defeated Fresno Falcons 4 to 0.

In a game with the Los Angeles Monarchs, the Skyhawks did not fare so well coming out on the short end of a 3 to 2 score.

CANUCKS BEATEN

Vancouver Canucks took a shellacking from the Seattle Ironmen who outskated and outpassed them for an 8 to 2 victory in Seattle.

Scoring four times in the first period, Fresno Falcons romped to a 5 to 1 win over the Oakland Oaks.

In Tacoma, New Westminster Royals shoved, the Tacoma Rockets even deeper in the league cellar by trouncing the Rockets 6 to 1.

BOWLERS MEET

A meeting of all carpet bowlers of the Canadian Legion bowling league will be held in the Britannia Branch of the Legion tomorrow night at 8.

Navy, Legion Register Wins In American Football Tilts

Royal Canadian Navy turned in a startling upset Sunday afternoon at Central Park, when they trounced the defending champions J.B.A.A. 26 to 8 in a brilliant exhibition of the seven-man American football code before 1,200 fans.

Lacking the polish of the losers, the sailors, by virtue of their superior weight and speed, spotted the Bays an early 6 to 0 lead and then proceeded to make a runaway of the match as they ripped the Bay line to shreds to score four touchdowns and convert two of them.

MacLeod was the big gun for the winners as he tallied three of the touchdowns, Wickett scoring the fourth. Bays picked their final points on a safety in the fourth period.

In the second match of the doubleheader, Legion Bears whipped the Oak Bay Gobblers 14 to 7, in a game that saw all the scoring confined to the first half.

Langdon of the Legionnaires fought his way over from the six-yard line to give the winners their first touchdown, Jackson running the ball over for the extra point. Later in the opening half Jackson added the second and major score for the Legion and plunged for the conversion.

LOTT GOES OVER

Oak Bay fought back gamely and scored just before half-time as Lott took a three-yard pass from Ritchie for the tally. The pass for conversion was good.

Play saw-sawed up and down the field in the second half but neither team was able to add to its score.

Well organized cheering sections were on hand for their respective clubs, and led by their nattily attired leaders added much color to the games.

Freddie Steele In Draw With Dolan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Freddie Steele, belting Vancouver featherweight, gained a 10-round draw with Joey Dolan, Irish battler from Spokane, Wash., in the main event of a fight card here last night. Steele weighed 127 and Dolan 126.

The decision was unpopular and was booed roundly by the fans. Dolan staggered Steele with hard rights and left in the third round and carried the fight for most of the 10 rounds.

Other matches saw Stan Almond, 120, Vancouver, win a technical knockout in the fourth round over Jack Arden, 122, Bremerton, Wash., and Tommy Campbell, 152, Vancouver, score a technical knockout over Johnny O'Day, 154, of Portland.

CAGE SCHEDULE

Basketball tonight at the east gym of the Central Junior High School will see Canadian Legion juniors tangle with the K.V.'s in the opener at 7.30.

This will be followed by an intermediate B boys' tussle between Brentwood Aces and Tillcums an hour later.

Welfare Council Director In City For Local Survey

Dr. R. E. G. Davis, executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council is now in Victoria to meet provincial and local welfare officials and to make a survey of social services in the surrounding community.

This morning, Dr. Davis met Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Health and Welfare, and E. W. Griffiths, deputy Provincial Secretary in charge of welfare.

He later met D. G. Decker, secretary of the Community Chest Welfare Council.

At the Prince Robert House this afternoon, Dr. Davis addressed a meeting of Community Chest and Welfare Council personnel and members of the public on "The Place of the Community Welfare Council in the Community."

B.C. Seeks Information On B.C.E.R. Refunding

Premier John Hart said this afternoon the provincial government's approval of the proposed refunding of B.C. Electric Railway Co. Ltd. indebtedness was being withheld pending the receipt of answers on certain questions arising out of the proposals.

The application for approval of the refunding deal, involving several million dollars, has been before the cabinet for some weeks.

Mr. Hart said also that he had not yet set the date at which he would leave for Ottawa to discuss with the Dominion government a new tax agreement to supercede the wartime tax arrangement in which the provincial government turned over to the Dominion the right to collect income and corporation taxes in lieu of a lump sum of more than $12,000,000.

Also under consideration by the cabinet are applications of the provincial employees' organization for a blanket increase in wages and of old age pensioners organizations for an immediate increase in the cost of living bonus for pensioners.

Scots Mark Armistice At Pioneer Square Ceremony

Brigadier F. N. Cabellu, D.S.O. and Bar, who commanded the 1st Battalion, the Canadian Scottish Regiment, overseas, stands at attention before the Vimy Cross in silent tribute to those men he commanded who gave their lives in battle.

Three generations, veterans and regulars, of The Canadian Scottish Regiment which is now in the 15th Brigade of the Canadian Reserve Army, paraded to the regimental war memorial, The Vimy Cross, in Pioneer Square, Remembrance Day, to place wreaths and pay tribute to the memory of the regiment's war dead.

Previously the Scottish had taken part in the parade and memorial rites in Parliament Square. Out in strength the regiment paraded in kilt and battledress blouse, Rob Roy hose, half-petticoats, sporran and tam-o'-shanter. The pipes and drums of the regimental band led.

Following the march past at the conclusion of the main ceremony at the Cenotaph the 1st Battalion halted at the dispersal point on Humboldt Street where they were joined by all ex-servicemen of the regiment for the march to Pioneer Square.

Families of ex-servicemen and casualties of both wars attended the service and placed wreaths. Brig. F. N. Cabellu placed the regiment's own wreath on the memorial.

B.C. Approves Several Questions For Ruling On E. and N. Land Tax

Questions the British Columbia Court of Appeal will be asked to rule on, deciding whether or not the provincial government has the authority to tax alienated E. and N. Railway belt lands on Vancouver Island, were approved today by the provincial cabinet.

Because the court's ruling may involve several millions of dollars it is considered likely that either the government or the E. and N. Railway, a subsidiary of the C.P.R., may appeal the case further, perhaps to the Privy Council, if the ruling is adverse.

In taking the case to the court, done under the Constitution Act, the province is following the suggestion of Chief Justice Gordon Sloan made in his report following a Royal Commission inquiry into the forest resources of the province. Chief Justice Sloan will preside at the hearings before the B.C. Appeal Court.

HEARD NEXT MONTH

Representing the province will be Senator J. de B. Farris, appointed some time ago by the provincial government.

The case, according to an announcement of Premier John Hart this afternoon, will go before the court early in December. Considerable groundwork, in the preparation of the court, has already been done by Senator Farris.

In the questions submitted to the court, the expression "land" means "timber land" as defined in the Taxation Act.

The questions are: 1. Was the said commissioner (Chief Justice Sloan) right in his finding that "there never was any contractual relationship between the provincial government and the contractors or the railway company in relation to the transfer of the railway belt to the railway company?"

2. If there was a contract, would any of the legislation herein outlined, if enacted, be a derogation from the provisions of the contract?

3. Was the said commissioner right in his finding that "there is no contract between the province and the company" which would be breached by the imposition of the tax recommended by the commissioner?

4. Would a tax imposed by the province on timber as and when cut upon lands in the Island Railway Belt, the ownership of which is vested in a private individual or corporation, the tax being a fixed sum per 1,000 foot board measure in the timber cut, be ultra vires of the province?

5. Is it within the competence of the Legislature of British Columbia to enact a statute for the imposition of a tax on land of

Ald. Morgan Charges No Attempt Made By C.N.R. To Bring Trade

The charge that the C.N.R. has never at any time advertised facilities in Victoria Harbor, or attempted to bring trade into the port which would require full use of the Ogden Point Piers and make essential their renovation was made today in a letter drafted by Ald. W. L. Morgan, chairman of the city harbor committee, which he asked the City Council today to endorse and send to R. C. Vaughan, president of the C.N.R., in answer to a letter from the C.N.R. official. Mr. Vaughan's letter refused to consider the asked-for renovation of Ogden Point piers.

Ald. Morgan, in his letter, agreed with Mr. Vaughan that the C.N.R. had, during the "lean years" operated the docks in a way "adequate to all the traffic offering," because, Ald. Morgan said, "no effort at all has been made to bring extra traffic to this port, and even the facilities of the entire set-up (by which we mean the grain elevator, oil storage, assembly wharf and other possibilities) have not been encouraged by any means of advertising or soliciting."

'CAPABLE OF EXPANSION'

Ald. Morgan insisted that the harbor business in this port is "possible and capable of expansion without detriment to any Canadian city." He continued: "In the interests of empire trade and Canadian economy it is now imperative that Canada attempt to divert some of the traffic into such places as Victoria, and this cannot be accomplished without a lot of work, considerable co-operation and a complete study of the facts which have already been communicated by word and letter to the government department concerned."

He stressed that "many foreign ships pass here daily which could put off freight here for trans-shipment and then pass on to Puget Sound. It is not denied that it will take time to get this business, but with the program already outlined, much could be obtained and the prosperity of both railroads considerably improved."

Ald. Morgan will leave Wednesday morning for a month-long holiday trip in eastern Canada and the United States, and during the trip he plans to interview Mr. Vaughan and other C.N.R. officials in Montreal, and also Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier in Ottawa to further press the city's case for improvement of the docking facilities here.

Esquimalt Service At Memorial Park

Remembrance Day services at Esquimalt were held at the Cenotaph in Esquimalt Memorial Park with Canon H. H. Creal of St. Paul's Anglican Church and Rev. James Hood of Esquimalt United Church conducting.

Wreaths were placed by Reeve Thomas Hadfield for the municipality, and Mrs. F. S. Ross for the Esquimalt Community League, which sponsored the service, followed by representatives of the army, navy, and air force, Canadian Legion, women's auxiliaries, Overseas Nursing Sisters, Girl Guides and Boy Scouts.

Sentries furnished by the army and navy stood on guard at the Cenotaph and the observance of two minutes' silence was ushered in with the firing of an R.C.N. field gun.

Hymns and O Canada were sung by the hundreds present to music by the Esquimalt School Band.

Two Arrested

Police headquarters here today announced the arrest of Davis Houston, 28, and his father, Ernest Houston, in connection with the death of Mrs. Beatrice Smith at Belize Inlet, north of Seymour Inlet on the west coast of the B.C. mainland.

Mrs. Smith, a cook at the camp, was found battered to death in her bed about a week ago.

Fred H. Parsons was the recipient of a black leather traveling bag at a ceremony at the Victoria Post Office to mark his retirement after 38 years of continuous service. Mr. Parsons has also received a letter of appreciation from the postmaster-general wishing him full enjoyment of the leisure to which his long service has entitled him.

Public Supports Union Dues Payment By Non-Members

By CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION

TORONTO — Payment of regular union dues by non-members who enjoy wage rates gained by union effort, is advocated by a slim majority of Canadian voters.

This proposal, which forms the basic measure applied by Mr. Justice Rand in the now historic settlement of the Ford strike in February, 1946, was submitted to a cross-section of adult Canadians in the latest Gallup poll, with the question:

"In a factory which has a union, should the workers who are not members be obliged to pay the regular union fees if they are getting union rates of pay?"

The national result was: Yes, should be obliged to pay, 52 per cent; no, should not, 33 per cent; undecided, 15 per cent.

Response on the subject indicated wide popular interest and knowledge of the issue, the Institute found, although women and farm voters tend slightly more to be undecided.

UNION VOTE

As would be expected, union members and their families support the principle more unanimously than the non-union public:

	Union Families	Non-union Families
Yes	75%	47%
No	18%	51%
Undecided	7%	2%

That labor is not unanimous in supporting, nor business in opposing, the Rand proposition is shown by the following table:

	Yes	Should	Should Not
Labor	42%	25%	13%
White collar	34%	34%	12%
Small business	36%	41%	23%
Business and professional	39%	49%	12%

The general evidence of this survey supplements and conforms with results of other recent Gallup polls reflecting public attitudes towards unionization and union security. Meet the "UTILITY FAMILY"

Maintaining the track beds to keep the street railway system in operation is the public service rendered by the B.C. Electric's track crew, shown here under the supervision of their foreman, Samuel Barr, left. A native of Scotland, Mr. Barr emigrated to the United States before coming to Victoria in 1934.

For the last 12 years he has been with our track crew, whose duties require them to keep equipment rolling in all kinds of weather. Mr.

Barr has been "Boss" of the gang for the last two years.

He is another of the World War 1 veterans comprising the B.C. Electric's company family, serving with Lord Lovatt's Scouts in France, Italy and Salonika. Among his hobbies is lawn bowling, at which he is considered a top-flight player in Victoria rinks. As a matter of fact, many of the trophies which he has won at this pastime have helped furnish his home.

Sciatic Pain Hasn't Bothered Me
For Four Years

As he is getting on toward middle age, this man is especially grateful for the way in which Kruschen helped him with his sciatic pain. Here's what he says:

"At one time I suffered for months with sciatic and rheumatic pains and had to use a cane when I walked. But after taking Kruschen for awhile, I could manage without the cane. That was four years ago and since then I have had no return of the complaint nor have I lost a day's work. I shall never be without Kruschen and can honestly recommend it to anyone who suffers as I did."—Mr. C. F.

Kruschen... the saline treatment... offers relief in many cases of sciatic pain, because its action is to help remove underlying causes. And one of the underlying causes of pain and ill-health is the accumulation of harmful waste matter in your system. Kruschen aids your organs of elimination and thereby brings about improvement. Thousands of persons bothered with sciatic and rheumatic pains have benefited by taking Kruschen; and that is a very good reason why you should try Kruschen yourself. Your nearest drug store has Kruschen Salts in two sizes: 25c. and 75c.

OAK BAY, PLAZA THEATRES

Drama, suspense and grandeur have been blended in "Canyon Passage," screen version of the Saturday Evening Post story by Ernest Haycox. Produced by Walter Wanger and released by Universal, the Technicolor classic is now at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres. Dana Andrews, Brian Donlevy and Susan Hayward are co-stars.

Locale of the new film is Oregon of the middle 50's. Much of the action takes place along the actual site of the famous Oregon Trail where early settlers braved the perils of the wilderness. In the supporting cast are Patricia Roc, Hoagy Carmichael, Ward Bond, Andy Devine and many other Hollywood favorites. Jacques Tourneur was the director.

SPOT SUCCESSFUL "HENRY VIII"

Directed by PAUL COSSLEY

HENRY SCANLON, tenor lead in the Gilbert and Sullivan productions, showing at the York tonight and tomorrow.

Claire Trevor Starred In 'Texas'

No matter who gets a break in pictures, he will inevitably go Hollywood. It has happened to more than one who has been unable to meet the sudden shock of success and that also goes for stars.

Not so long ago, Columbia sent a couple of cattlemen to Mexico to locate some horned steers. They had been unable to find any in California, Arizona or New Mexico and a herd was needed as the backbone of "Texas," thrilling outdoor epic, which depicts the early cattle wars of Texas, around 1866, and the struggles of the honest cattlemen in driving the beef to the nearest railroad at Abilene, Kansas. William Holden, Claire Trevor and Glenn Ford are starred in "Texas," now at the Dominion Theatre.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Geraldine Fitzgerald's artistic talents get full play in Paramount's thrill-drama, "O.S.S.," which is now at the Capitol Theatre, and in which she portrays a sculptress engaged in daring and dangerous government work.

The lovely Irish actress, who co-stars with Alan Ladd, sold the studio a modernistic landscape which she painted in her Santa Monica studio. It was used as a prop in the film, then added to Paramount's large collection of art for use in future productions.

Miss Fitzgerald studied art in Dublin before entering the theatre.

YORK THEATRE

"Down Missouri Way," gay new musical comedy romance produced by PRC Studios, is currently at the York Theatre for its initial showing locally. The film stars a brilliant cast headed by lovely Martha O'Driscoll, John Carradine, Eddie Dean and William Wright, and features eight wonderful new song hits.

RIO THEATRE

Betty Grable, John Payne and June Haver are starred in "The Dolly Sisters," 20th Century-Fox's dazzling Technicolor musical based on the life of the sensational sister team who set a world aflame with their song, and broke a million hearts along the way. The picture, produced by George Jessel, is now at the Rio Theatre.

Present 'Patience' At York Tomorrow

Edgar Iverson, tenor, who created a sensation in New York, with his outstanding interpretation of Gilbert and Sullivan's most droll character, re-creates for a Victorian audience the humorous take-off on Oscar Wilde.

Bunthorne, an aesthetic, sarcastic person, keeps all the characters of "Patience," and the audience in gales of laughter with his ready tongue and beautiful voice.

"Patience," will be on stage, at the York Theatre at 2.30 tomorrow afternoon, with Bunthorne attending to the humor. The production is by the Breden-Savoy Light Opera Co.

ATLAS THEATRE

Advance reports indicate that there are laughs in abundance in Paramount's new comedy-romance, "The Well Groomed Bride," which is at the Atlas Theatre with co-stars Olivia De Havilland, Academy Award winner Ray Milland, and Sonny Tufts.

Expert comedy playing by the three stars, and a smooth job by director Sidney Lanfield is said to maintain "The Well Groomed Bride" on a merry note throughout. The hilarious screenplay by Claude Binyon and Robert Russell enables Milland again to demonstrate his versatility by a complete change of pace from his characterization of an alcoholic in "The Lost Weekend."

ROYAL THEATRE

The opening scene of the film version of the Canadian Navy show, "Meet the Navy," now at the Royal Theatre, is a vast panorama of Canada, sweeping across the country from sea to sea. As a background, the voice of Oscar Natke is heard in "Song of Canada."

When "Meet the Navy" was being filmed in England, the producer, Louis Jackson, was ransacking the libraries for a number that would be typically Canadian to open the picture. Suddenly, his associate producer, Capt. J. P. Connolly, director of Special Services, R.C.N., recalled a number he had learned at school in Canada. All he knew were some of the words, but after some research, Chappell & Company Limited, came up with a copy of "Song of Canada," more commonly known as "Canada My Own."

The song was written by an Englishman, Percy Semon, who spent several years in Canada.

Hollywood

Lovely Lily

HOLLYWOOD (NEA).—Lily Pons was wearing a fur hat tied under her chin and six gold stars on the lapel of her tailored suit. Three French poodles and Johnson were following her from room to room in her baby-blue suite at the Beverly Hills hotel.

She explained the stars: "The maestro (Andre Kostelanetz) gave them to me for six overseas tours."

And she explained why she'd like to do another movie:

"She would like to make 'an opera story in the movie that is not the opera. I am good enough to act the straight story."

"It is not good to be cast as the opera or concert star. All the time Hollywood wants to make me the comedienne or the big star. I want the story that is not the big drama, not the comedy—just sweet and nice."

LILY REMAINS LILY

And she explained that she doesn't want to be made over by Hollywood.

"The first time I came to Hollywood they said: 'Lily, you must have caps on your teeth.'"

"I said: I have beautiful teeth. I keep them."

"Then they said: 'Lily, you must become a blonde.'"

"Then I got mad and said: If you want Lily Pons for a movie why do you ask for Lily Pons to look like someone else?"

"So they let me look like Lily. But the movie was all wrong—too much comedy."

Lily sings two songs in a new musical, "Carnegie Hall," playing herself.

"That was different," she said. "I like that because it was about my debut at Carnegie Hall. There was no comedy—just singing."

HER ALL FOR HER ART

After all these years—she's been a big-time opera and concert star for 15 years—Lily confessed that she still gets nervous the day of the performance. In fact, she stays nervous for about five minutes even after making her entrance.

"I stay in bed all day and suffer," she said. "The agony is terrible. I've tried doctors and pills, but nothing works."

"One of my doctor friends who knows how much I suffer said: 'Lily, you should be hypnotized 12 hours before you go on.'"

"I thought it over, but I was afraid that the performance would not be so good. I can never disappoint my public, so I shall continue to suffer."

BARRYMORE "JIVING"

Lionel Barrymore, noted for his symphonic compositions, has just written his first swing tune, "Plain Memories."

Esther Williams will not make any more movies until March of 1947. She's retired to keep that date with the stork.

Adela Rogers St. John's son, Dick, has enlisted in the U.S. army Air Corps.

Although they are planning a divorce, Keenan, Wynn and his estranged wife, Eve, are still living under the same roof.

One of our friends was sitting in the Wynn living-room the other day when Keenan walked in and, without speaking to Eve or anyone, went upstairs to his room and slammed the door.

"How come," asked our friend, "that you are separated yet still living together?"

"Because," said Eve, "he says he won't move until I find him an apartment. And I haven't been able to find one yet."

To Help Veterans In Baking Industry

The Prices Board is offering the way for veterans who want to start business in the baking or allied trades.

F. H. Leberg, oils and fat administrator, announced during the week-end veterans will get the allotments of oils and fats they require to start operations.

"It doesn't matter what business they want to go into, whether it's selling potato chips or opening a bakeshop," he said.

Abacist Defeats Machine Calculator

TOKYO (AP).—A Japanese clerk, nimbly flicking the beads of the centuries-old abacus, easily defeated an American operating a modern-day calculating machine in a speed and accuracy contest before a large audience Monday.

Kiyoshi Matsuzaki's contraption of wire and beads proved superior in addition, division and subtraction problems while Pte. Thomas N. Wood triumphed only in multiplication.

Matsuzaki won the final heat—a composite problem involving the four phases of mathematics.
